PRACTITIONER TRAINING

Neuro-Link offers brain profile practitioner training to educators, trainers, therapists, counsellors, psychologists, consultants and organizations to optimize brain performance and determine people's neurological design. Practitioners and organizations are trained, certified and licensed to utilize the unique Learning Receptiveness Profile (LRP™) brain profile assessment as a tool to do business. This four-day workshop is presented internationally, and can also be done through webinar modules and online self-study courses.

The LRP™ brain profile assessment is a neuroscientific, multi-dimensional tool that assesses 6 drivers that can be enhanced for optimum brain performance and 7 factors that determine a person's neurological design. Neuroscience is the most comprehensive learning and thinking styles assessment that exists, as it assesses all the primary factors that influence brain performance and learning receptivity.
